Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Thursday 22 Apr 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Most areas fine and dry with plenty of sunshine.

Today:
After a chilly start, most areas will be dry and sunny. Cloudier for the far north of Scotland though. Warmer than Wednesday, especially in the east. Breezy in the south.

Tonight:
Clear and cold for much of the UK with another widespread frost. Cloudier across northern Scotland, perhaps with a little rain at times in far north. Gusty winds in southwest.

Friday:
Dry and sunny across most of the UK with temperatures a little higher than Thursday. Cloudier in far north, with further strong winds in southwest.

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Settled and dry; sunniest/warmest in the west, cooler in the east with more cloud at times. Windy in extreme southwest, otherwise winds light. Rain probably arriving in far north Monday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.